

Privacy policy

The protection of your personal data and the reserve to the basic right for data protection is important to us. We strictly adhere to the legal requirements when processing your personal data and would like to inform you of our data collection and use so that you feel safe when you visit our website. The following data protection declaration explains which of your data is collected on our website and which and how the data is processed and used and who you can contact if you have any concerns.

1. Scope

This privacy policy applies only to the website www.kitzkongress.at operated by KITZKONGRESS GMBH (referred to as “KITZKONGRESS GMBH” or “we”). It does not apply to websites that are not linked to this privacy policy or those operated by third parties such as Facebook. We recommend that you review the privacy policies published on those websites.

By using this website you agree to the following provisions of our privacy policy.

You have the right to revoke your consent to this privacy policy or individual sections at any time in writing by contacting us (see section 9).

2. Collection, processing and use of personal data

Personal data means any information which allows us to identify you and can be traced back to you, such as your name, email address, phone number and any reference data you give us when you register.

We will only collect, use and transmit your personal data if licit or if you agree to data collection. We collect your information directly from your entries and automatically via the online application's technology.

2.1 Collection, processing and use of your personal data

We collect, store and process your data for the entire purchase transaction, technical administration, statistical analysis, our own marketing purposes (see section 2.2) as well as for preventing criminal offence and fraud or for detecting security threats. In particular, we use your data for the following actions:

- to provide and improve our service and support;

- to contact you according to your request;
- for data analyses;
- for internal audits;
- to prevent and detect security threats, fraud and other malicious activities;
- to meet our legal obligations and carry out our agreements;
- to create accounts and statistics on access behaviour (e.g. number of accesses to a source, number of accesses per client in total and per source, changes in access frequency).

2.1.1 Log files

When visiting our website www.kitzkongress.at, protocol data, so-called log files, are stored by default for technical reasons. These datasets contain the following data: date, time, name of the opened page, IP address, the website from which you visit us (referrer URL), browser type, and operating system. We also capture and store automatically which pages you visit. This data is stored and analysed anonymously. Anonymously means that it is not possible or possible only with disproportionately great effort of time, costs and workforce, that data be attributed to a certain or determinable natural person.

2.1.2. Transmission to third parties

Your personal data will only be transmitted to third parties where legally permissible (to enforce or fulfil a regulatory order, a law or an arbitrary measure, to detect and prevent safety threats, fraud or any other malicious activities, to protect or enforce our rights and property or to protect the rights or personal security of our staff and third parties), for marketing purposes or if you have given your consent.

It is possible that contents of third parties such as maps of Google Maps, videos of YouTube, RSS feeds or graphics of other websites are incorporated within our website. This always implies that the provider of these contents detects the IP address of the user, because without the IP address it would not be possible to send the contents to the user's browser. Therefore, the IP address is required in order to display these contents. We attempt to use only contents of providers who use the IP address only to transmit the contents. However, we have no influence on this, in case the third parties store your IP address e.g. for statistical purposes. If this becomes known we will inform you about it.

Your personal data is partially stored by third parties such as Google, Facebook, etc. in the USA and will be disclosed by them for special purposes. To learn for which purposes your data is disclosed, we recommend you review the respective privacy policy.

2.2. Use of your data for advertising purposes

Your consent to the newsletter is voluntary and may be revoked at any time. You can revoke via the unsubscribe link in each newsletter or by sending a message in writing (e.g. email, letter) to the contact listed in section 10.

2.2.2. Product recommendations
